So our saga begins in Italy with my daughter's story-book wedding on Lake Como in Italy. We returned to San Diego have the wedding dress cleaned and pressed before a reception in Detroit.

The dress was severely damaged by the cleaner we took it to – it had lost its luster, body, and softness. We were heartbroken. We took it to Margaret's to see what they could do with it. The level of service was unparalleled. We consulted with the experts; were guided in the decision making about our options; and were provided with constant feedback and communication for a week while Margaret's tackled the challenge. The result: a dress that was restored to almost its full glory for a third reception here in San Diego.

The dress is now back in their hands for preservation. Margaret's knew what they could do – the highest quality work imaginable; they knew what we needed – a dress that fit well and reminded us of a magical day in Italy; and then they delivered more than we expected. We knew the dress would never be the same, but it was close. Throughout the process, we felt incredibly supported by every member of the Margaret's team. You choose a vendor for quality, reliability, and responsiveness – Margaret's was a 10+ on every dimension!
